Free reliable sources! Getting the most out of The Wikipedia Library
Workshop 45 min

The Wikipedia Library provides active Wikimedia contributors with free access to paywalled reliable sources. In this session we will show you how to access, use and expand the library, and invite discussion on content you would like to see added to it.

Sam Walton

Sam Walton is a Senior Product Manager at the Wikimedia Foundation and an administrator at the English Wikipedia. At the WMF he works on the Moderator Tools team, which is also responsible for running The Wikipedia Library program.

Partnerships

- We don't pay for any of our subscriptions for the library!
- Publishers get the benefit of good publicity and more citations on Wikipedia — there's a tool which counts links to their webpages
- It can be a lot of work to add new content to the library
- Looking for organisations which publish reliable content that is at least partially paywalled

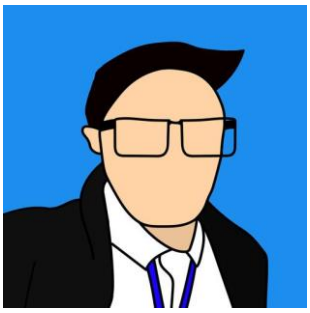
Improving user experience for the English Wikipedia's copyright cleanup scene

Lecture 20 min

A look at the past, present, and future of the user experience of copyright cleanup editors on the English Wikipedia. Hear about improvements to existing tools used by copyright cleanup editors and a newly-developed tool specifically for facilitating copyright work on the English Wikipedia.



Chlod Alejandro

I'm Chlod Aidan Alejandro, a Wikimedian since 2019 and a college student from the Philippines. First and foremost, I'm a software developer and I spend much of my time developing tools for both editors and developers and making maintenance work easier for editors.

Mentoring new editors on Wikipedia
Workshop 60 min

The majority of first time editors never return to edit again. Learn how Mentorship can help newcomers on your wiki, then brainstorm further improvements to Mentorship with the WMF Growth team.

Kirsten Stoller

As an open-knowledge enthusiast, I've dedicated my career to promoting access to information and empowering people to contribute to it. With a Master's in Library and Information Science and a professional background in product management for crowdsourced information products, I bring a unique perspective to my current role at the Wikimedia Foundation, where I work on the Growth team. Based in the US, I'm passionate about supporting readers and editors on mobile devices, engaging younger generations in the movement, and collaborating with cultural institutions.
